

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Dec. 5 , 2008

CONTACT: Bruce Dobie

Dobie Media

615-351-2489

EVIESAYS ANNOUNCES CONTENT PARTNERSHIP WITH EVENTBRITE

NASHVILLE – Eviesays.com, a search engine for event and entertainment listings, has announced a content partnership with Eventbrite, the web’s largest self-service event management and online ticketing site.

By way of the partnership, Eventbrite events will be published on the eviesays calendar, where thousands of users will be able to search for events in their communities.

For eviesays, the arrangement builds on its existing network of content providers across the United States. “I am very pleased with the amount of content our Eventbrite partnership brings eviesays,” Bruce Dobie, eviesays CEO, stated. “This will give our users access to thousands of entertainment and business events around the country.”

“We’re very pleased to add eviesays to the growing network of Eventbrite distribution partners,” said Jack Mardack, Eventbrite Director of Marketing. “These relationships contribute directly to the success of our eventholders by allowing them to connect with additional ticket buyers looking for events in their area.”

###

About eviesays

Eviesays is a web-based calendar listings tool providing information about events and activities in towns and communities in the United States. Eviesays partners with media organizations (radio, TV, print and web-centric) to get its content and technology in front of hundreds of thousands of viewers every day. Its advertising model allows media partners to reap immediate revenues and at the same time deliver a valuable service to their visitors. For additional information about eviesays, please visit: eviesays.com.

About Eventbrite

Eventbrite is a San Francisco-based event management service that gives event holders the necessary tools to publish, promote and sell tickets online. Eventbrite serves event organizers around the world, transacting millions of tickets to date. For additional information about Eventbrite, please visit: <http://www.eventbrite.com>.